International Material Shipments to the U.S.

To ensure smooth transportation and timely US Customs release upon arrival, it is imperative all shippers follow these guidelines.

The Customer Service Department or the Engineering Service Representative must authorize all material returns to the United States. This authorization will be granted in a written document (Authorization Form) indicating the Claim or Warranty number and the instructions for the return of the material. They will provide all instructions and necessary documentation for transit of the material to its final destination in the United States.

The shipper must follow all instructions as indicated on the Authorization Form. It is the shipper's responsibility to contact the carrier specified in the return instructions, book the material to its final destination in the United States, arrange for pick-up times and organize the shipping, including submitting the Importer Security Filing "ISF" form to the US Customs Broker for ocean shipments.

All shipments shall be returned under the shipping term (INCOTERM) DAP (Delivered at Place). The shipper will pay for the transportation from origin to destination and PRL will be responsible for importation duties and taxes into the United States.

All material (packaging) must be physically marked with the PRL part number, description, country of origin, US HTS code, and quantity. The marking must be identifiable at all stages during the shipping process. The marking must be consistent with the information provided on all shipping documents.

The value declared in the shipping documents must be provided by either the Customer Service Department or the Engineering Service Representative. The commercial invoice shall list PRL part number, part description, item serial number, US HTS code, and item price (value) in USD. In most cases, a CORE part number will be issued to represent the value of a defective part or component.

In order to maintain an adequate pool of used parts for rebuilt components and to control the production process UTEX and R&R materials must be in transit from the customer within one month after the return has been approved.
