

LITTLE BIG ROAR®

Deer Call

Model No. 751

U.S. Patent No. 5,910,039

- Wooden Barrel • Creates Aggressive Grunts
- Produced by Bucks During the Rut
- Includes Lanyard

The Little BIG ROAR® reproduces aggressive buck grunts. It's small in size but BIG in sound. The Little BIG ROARs™ hardwood barrel has a great tone. The soft rubber end allows you to accent the grunts for accurate realism. Now you can reproduce the aggressive grunts that bucks make when their testosterone levels are through the roof with the Little BIG ROAR®.

INSTRUCTIONS & EXERCISES

For more detailed instructions visit our website at primos.com for instructional video clips of the aggressive grunts made by the Little BIG ROAR®.

Coercive or Attention Grunt - A soft, short (about 1/2 - 1 second) call made by deer to announce their presence. It means, "I'm a deer and I'm over here". Normally, you would give this call whenever you see a deer and are trying to get its attention to get it to come closer. Under most circumstances, the deer will stop whatever it's doing, look in the direction of the caller, and begin walking in that direction.

Tending Grunt - A short, guttural sound of moderate volume that bucks make when calling to Estrus™ does. It means, "I am ready to mate". It lasts a little less than a second and is slightly louder than the Coercive Grunt. There are usually several grunts given in a series. Make this call when trying to attract a buck into range, by making the buck think there is another buck invading his territory.

"ROAR" Aggressive Grunt - A louder, longer grunt (1-1 1/2 seconds) than the Coercive or Tending Grunts and is issued as a challenge to another buck to stay away or fight. Blow hard bursts of air into the call. Usually one or two calls are all you need to make the dominant buck in an area come rushing in. Sometimes this call is made in conjunction with antler rattling with Primos™ BIG Bucks™ Bag (Model No. 730) or the Fightin' Horns™ (Model No. 710).
