When you reserve or try-on merchandise in-store, we may collect Personal Information such as your personal identifiers (contact information), store location and commercial transaction information (the items you wish to reserve or try-on) for the purposes of fulfilling your request.

We receive personal characteristics (such as size information and locale) when you provide the information to us. We use size information to provide you with the products you order and save your preferences.

In certain circumstances, we may also collect Personal Information that you provide to us regarding other people. For example, you may provide us with personal identifiers (such as the name and address) for a gift recipient. When you provide us with this Personal Information, we use it for the purposes of processing the shipment and, in some cases, to communicate with the intended recipient. We rely on you to obtain any necessary consent from the intended recipient to our use of their Personal Information for these purposes.

We also collect certain information through our Platforms automatically, such as:

- Usage and Geolocation Information. Whenever you visit or interact with our Platforms, we, as well as our service providers and trusted partners (collectively, "Vendors"), may use a variety of technologies (such as cookies, beacons and pixels) that automatically or passively collect information ("Automated Technologies") about how the Platforms are navigated, accessed and used ("Usage Activity Information"), and geo-location data. Usage Activity Information may include the pages served, the time/date of your visit, the preceding page views, and your use of and pathway through the Platforms.
- Device Identifiers and Characteristics. We and our Vendors may use Automated Technologies to collect personal identifiers (including your IP address(es) and other unique device identifiers) and device characteristics (including browser type, device type, operating system and application version) for the device (e.g., computer, mobile phone, tablet or other device) you use to access the Platforms.
- Automated Technologies. The Automated Technologies used on the Platforms to collect Usage Information include, but are not limited to, cookies (data files placed on a device when it is used to visit the Platforms), mobile analytics software, pixel tags (a transparent graphic image, sometimes called a web beacon or tracking beacon, placed on a Platform to indicate that a page or e-mail has been viewed), and similar technologies. Both session cookies (which expire once you close your web browser) and persistent cookies (which remain on your device, sometimes until you delete them) may be used. Some Automated Technologies may tell your browser to get third party content, such as customer reviews, from third parties.

We collect this information automatically through our Platforms for security and anti-fraud purposes (including protecting the integrity of the Platforms and our stores), to better understand and enhance user navigation on our Platforms, for marketing and analytics purposes (including allowing the selection of personalized ads or offers believed to appeal to you, based on your interests, preferences, location, or demographic information), and for internal operations and auditing. Additionally, Automated Technologies may be used to associate you with social networking sites (e.g., Facebook, Twitter and Snapchat), and, if you so choose, enable interaction between your activities on the Platforms and your activities on such social networking sites.

If you would prefer not to accept or disable cookies, most browsers will allow you to: (i) change your Device browser settings to notify you when your Device receives a cookie, which lets you choose whether or not to accept it; or (ii) set your Device browser to automatically reject any cookie. Removing or rejecting browser cookies does not necessarily affect third party flash cookies used in connection with our Platforms. To delete or disable flash cookies, please visit the following link

To help protect you and others, we monitor and record video and take photographs of the public areas of stores for security, anti-fraud, loss prevention, incident reporting and other operational purposes. We may also use facial recognition services on the video and photographs to generate biometric information (e.g., face scans) for the above purposes and for legal and internal research purposes. We may also collect personal identifiers (including IP Address and other unique device identifiers) and geo-location information of visitors' devices in and around our stores to monitor foot traffic to help us understand how shoppers move around our stores, identify what shoppers seem interested in and improve the shopping experience.

We use this information to display publicly on the Platforms and other locations (such as in stores, on television, and on social media pages). We also use the information to better understand your needs and preferences, enhance and personalize our product offerings to you and improve the Platforms and our service and merchandise offerings.

Contacting customer service. We use the Personal Information (including personal identifiers, commercial transaction information and financial information) you provide to us when you contact our Customer Service Department for the purposes of reviewing any questions you raise and responding to you. Depending upon the nature of your query, we may request additional Personal Information for the purposes of verifying your identity. We may record the audio information in customer service telephone calls for quality purposes and to meet our legal obligations.

Information we receive from others. We may obtain Personal Information from other sources and combine that with information we collect directly from you. For example, we may collect personal identifiers, commercial transaction information, and personal characteristics (such as gender and birth date) from third parties to ensure we have up-to-date contact information for you, to detect fraud or theft, to facilitate your use of a third-party application or feature (such as one of our Facebook, Twitter or Snapchat applications or a similar application or feature on a third-party website), or from third-party analytics and advertising providers as further described below. We may also receive commercial transaction information (including purchase history) when you use the AEO credit card. We apply the applicable provisions of this Notice to such combined information, so long as it is combined.

Inferences from the information listed above. We will use the information listed above to draw inferences about your preferences (including your preferred brands and styles) to help us provide you with personalized content and offers and help us develop and provide better merchandise and services.

Publicly. If you choose to participate in a product review or rating or rate a review as helpful or not helpful, the submissions may be published on the Platforms, in emails, on television, and on social media platforms. Published ratings and reviews may identify the author’s personal identifiers (such as nickname), personal characteristics, locale and the content of the submissions. You consent to making this information available to the public.
