Destination OSAKA: Autumn Edition

Autumn is one of the most delightful and admiring seasons to experience in Japan. Taking a trip to the areas where leaves have turned red & yellow, especially in the mountains, public parks, or temple & shrine grounds is a popular activity in this season.

Popular Autumn Leaf Spots

Osaka Castle Park (Osaka): Located in Osaka's central district, known for the Osaka Castle Tower which stands at its center. During the fall you can enjoy the landscape created by the autumn leaves of the gingko trees against the background of Osaka Castle.

MinooPark (Osaka): Located 30 minutes north of central Osaka. The park is in a vast land spreading over 83.8 ha. A popular activity is a 2.8 km hike to Minoo waterfall.

Arashiyama(Kyoto): Arashiyama is a district at the outskirts of Kyoto. The forested mountains in the background and the trees on the grounds of local temples turn colors from late November.
