CRACKING OLD FASHIONED / 5,000

This cocktail is literally cracking! We are more than happy to do a classic Old Fashioned for our Ladies and Gentlemen yet we find it our obligation to give them a liquid experience and wanting them to be urging to come back to see us for another unique experience. The name “cracking” came as we crack the walnuts to make our house walnut simple syrup. We then pair it with a walnut dipped in chocolate.

Ingredients:	Bulleit bourbon
	House walnut simple syrup
	House chocolate and orange bitters
	Walnut dipped in milk chocolate

DANCING ALMONDS / 6,500 / 12,000

An explosion of flavors! Strawberries, lime, almond, vodka, and top off with lavender foam where we take advantage of all the incredible lavender from our garden and finish it off with dehydrated raspberries. The entire flavor brings a beautiful, joined smile. This is a cocktail to be enjoyed by two, and with the first sip they must look each other in the eyes for it is something we don't do enough.

Ingredients:

Beluga noble vodka
Pure strawberry juice
Orgeat (Almond syrup)
Lemon juice
Lavender foam

ABUELO MOJITO / 3,800

A twist and a dance on the original mojito. Where we infuse the mint into the rum, we then divorce the sugar and marry the honey. The cocktail is breezy and relaxing, making you fresh and alive.

	Honey simple syrup
	Fresh lime juice
	Soda

COFFEE SKINNY DIPPER / 4,000

ORGANIC & BIODYNAMIC WINES

For a beverage to be classified as 'organic wine', the grapes must be sourced from a vineyard that follows organic viticulture, utilizing naturally occurring substances instead of the industrially produced chemicals used in conventional viticulture. The idea is to take the 'prevention rather than cure' approach to grape growing, creating a healthy bio-diversity and soil is considered paramount.

Followers of biodynamic viticulture describe it as an advanced form of organic viticulture. Biodynamics calls for a holistic approach aimed at achieving ecological self-sufficiency but also including ethical and spiritual considerations. The vineyard is seen as a living organism which can be maintained in a self-sustaining way, potentially creating a unique growing environment.

Both organic and biodynamic winegrowing are grouped under a relatively new concept known as 'sustainable viticulture', which ensures the avoidance of any sort of environmental degradation while maintaining the economic viability of the vineyard.
