Pu-Erh Toucha

325

An aged, fermented tea that comes from the Yunnan province in China. Pu-erh tea is unique because it is made from a natural fermentation process, low in tannins and has a characteristic thick, smooth, earthy flavor. It is one of the few teas that gets better with age and is good for many infusions of the same leaves.

Aroma: Sweet and musty with hints of plum

Palate: Broad and earthy

Golden Assam

325

This organic black tea is blended specifically for strength, and as such is well-suited as a breakfast tea with high release of caffeine and tannins. Harvested in Northeastern India and known for its full-bodied, malty character, Assam is an essential wake-me-up tea for your first cup of the day.

Aroma: Biscuity

Palate: Brisk and malty

Peppermint

325

A stimulating and refreshing herbal infusion with an amazing minty and uplifting aroma.

Aroma: Cool

Palate: Minty and sweet

Imperial English Breakfast

325

Biscuity Keemun with just a hint of Ceylon to sweeten; tradition in a cup. The result is an intensely flavored black tea that is full-bodied, complex, and elegant.

Aroma: Sweet and biscuity

Palate: Elegant and refined smooth sweetness

Imperial Earl Grey

325

Earl Grey is one of the most recognized flavored teas in the world. This quintessentially British tea is typically a black tea base flavored with oil from the rind of bergamot orange, a citrus fruit with the appearance and flavor somewhere between an orange and a lemon with a little grapefruit and lime thrown in.

Aroma: Clean citrus scent

Palate: Light body with slightly spicy finish

Vanilla Rooibos

325

This particular blend was conceived over fifteen years ago in response to a query from South African rooibos farms on how to overcome the typical acidity associated with rooibos. The teas made from rooibos are believed to be rich in antioxidants. Vanilla works very well in balancing the cup with its warm mid-tones.

Aroma: Sweet and soft

Palate: Rich and full-bodied with a creamy finish

Silver Leaf

350

Picked between the middle of March to early April, a glittering pale yellow color with evidence of floating white hairs that reflect light. Baihao Yinzhen is said to smell of 'freshly cut hay', and the flavor is described as sweet, vegetal, and delicate.

Aroma: Soft floral notes

Palate: Light subtle character with exquisite complexity

Imperial Tung Ting Oolong

350

Tung-Ting Oolong is a green oolong tea which means it has been baked less than dark Oolong teas. Leaves for this tea are grown in the Tung Ting region of Taiwan at an elevation of about 2,500 ft. When brewed, it produces a golden-green hue, a mild smooth floral taste, a strong sweet flowery aroma, and a pleasant lasting aftertaste.

Aroma: Golden orchid - sweet and slightly spicy

Palate: Mild, smooth floral taste, tending sweet aftertaste

Thunderbolt Darjeeling

350

This blend is alluringly complex, relatively light-liquoring, and recognized for its evocative mouth-dry feel. Darjeeling is made from the same small leaf tea plant as the Chinese varietal of Camellia Sinensis. Known as the 'Champagne of Tea' and charged with the distinct Darjeeling character, named after the hill-station, literally meaning 'Land of the Thunderbolts'.

Aroma: Green and pungent

Palate: Round and brisk with a hint of muscatel

Lapsang Souchong

350

Hailing from the Wuyi Mountains in the Fujian province of China, it is often called 'smoked tea' and Zheng Shan Xiao Zhong in Chinese. The smoky flavor of this tea, which is sometimes described as tarry, is a wonderful accompaniment to savory dishes, dark chocolate delights, and is especially suitable to sip around a campfire.

Aroma: Heady pine smoke

Palate: Full mouth with a tarry finish

Tencha Matcha

350

Matcha is a powdered green tea used in Japan's formal tea ceremony, as well as for everyday drinking pleasure and as a delicious ingredient in countless recipes.

Aroma: Grassy

Palate: Vegetal, nori-like, umami aftertaste

Eros

350

Sweet Mandarin orange and warm vanilla passionately embrace Ceylon black tea leaves in this sensory delight named after the Greek God of love and beauty, giving you that warm feeling in every sip.

Aroma: Orange and vanilla

Palate: Smooth, sweet, and creamy
