SCALAMANDRÉ ICONS

TIGRE

Introduced in the 1960's by Franco Scalamandré, the long-standing Scalamandré icon, Tigre, makes a statement in both traditional and modern interiors. Tigre's graphic tiger skin pattern within a woven ombré of color, allowing the design to layer beautifully in any space. Available in a dense, luxurious silk velvet the was first woven in Italy is now made in the USA by expert weavers. In addition, Tigre-Viscose is offered in a natural colorway as well as five bold, fashionable hues.

ZEBRAS

"GINO OF CAPRI" FEATURING GINO CIRCIELLO.

DAZZLE OF ZEBRAS

Our legendary striped zebras print reached star status decades ago, and it all began within the walls of an Upper East Side restaurant in Manhattan. In 1945, Gino Circiello, the owner of renowned Italian eatery Gino of Capri (known to its A-List regulars as Gino's) dreamt of safari adventures but lacked the money for travel, so instead he dreamt up a hunt scene to wrap the walls of his restaurant, and enlisted his friend Valentino Crescenzi to draw it for him. The result: a playful yet striking depiction of zebras and arrows set against splashy red that quickly became synonymous with the restaurant itself.

Gino's was famed for hosting celebrity guests from Jackie Kennedy and Marilyn Monroe to Frank Sinatra and Ed Sullivan, but they were equally famed for their signature zebras. So when a fire ravaged the restaurant in 1973, recreating the sauce red, animal-clad walls was just as important as being able to serve spaghetti again. And this time, Gino called on his friend Franco Scalamandr  for the job. Franco's wife Flora Baranzelli Scalamandr  crafted her own copy of the original, and so began Scalamandr 's spin on the dashing print.

BEST-SELLING PILLOWS WITH STORIED HISTORIES

Elsie de Wolfe

Considered America's first decorator, Elsie de Wolfe started decorating in 1905 and built an impressive career as a trusted tastemaker, surrounding herself with beauty and paving the way for generations to come. Our iconic Scalamandré fern print celebrates her love of leafy botanicals,

Edwin's Covey

Inspired by Franco Scalamandré's son-in-law, Edwin Bitter, and his love of hunting, this hand-printed linen motif has been a mainstay of the line for nearly 25 years.

FABLES
Jawahar Crewel

Originally curated for the Old World Weavers line by founder Iris Apfel herself, Fables has withstood the test of time and remains a fan favorite.

Hinson Palm

Originating in the 1940s when Lucile and Remy Chatain Sr. commissioned Albert Stockdale to create the iconic banana leaf design, this licensed motif is available at Scalamandré.

GUERMANTES
by Paule Marrot

Designed in the 1920's and named for a bucolic town in the Île-de-France, the cotton print features carnations, irises, tulips, daffodils and tossed bell-like petals.

Spatter

Crafted by Harry Hinson in the early 1970s, the screen-printed motif embodies the iconic paint spatter design of the ages.

Fireworks

Albert Hadley's 1970s design is an energetic, all-over pattern featuring graphic bursts of color. Available in fabric and wallcovering variations.
